Education & Employment

Lives Transformed

About Us

The Salvation Army Education and Employment (E&E) is passionate about transforming lives. We've helped thousands of people into brighter futures with credits toward nationally recognised qualifications, job training, job placement, life skills and work ethics that help people get ahead.

At the heart of E&E is the philosophy that each person has great potential. E&E shares The Salvation Army's DNA, and is a major contributor in the efforts to achieve its mission of caring for people, transforming lives and reforming society.

Foundation learning is the key to employment, and employment is the key to living an independent and fulfilling life. Since 1978, E&E has upskilled over 60,000 New Zealanders and is New Zealand's longest running Private Training Establishment. With 16 sites nationwide we're also one of the largest service providers.

You can trust us for your entry-level education and employment needs.

Change lives through education and work.*

I was on the Youth Guarantee programme and have graduated with NCEA Levels 1, 2 and 3. This will always be my biggest achievement because I've overcome so many barriers. I have never felt so proud.

Before, I never really learnt to talk to people and get to know them, but with the new skills I learnt I began to make friends, and I'm leaving E&E with good friendships.

Destiny (Youth Guarantee)

I was referred to an E&E Training for Work course by my Work and Income case manager. I had heaps of learning experiences at E&E, but the things I learnt most were consistency and commitment.

When I got my job at Mitre 10 Mega I was so happy! This job has been the number-one achievement in my life, and number two is that I've proved to myself that I can commit to something.

Josiah (Training for Work)

I am passionate about helping people achieve qualifications and get into work. We pride ourselves on knowing the employment needs in each region of New Zealand, tailoring education and training programmes to suit local needs.
